

Who will you be?

The I AM book series, written by Susan Verde and illustrated by Peter H. Reynolds, celebrates the unique and wonderful qualities about being human.

This activity is designed to accompany any or all of the books in the I AM series, and is a perfect springboard for using qualities as the basis for a class agreement.

As a class, discuss the qualities being explored in each book. Focus on how the language and illustrations are used to convey each quality. Utilising the books established format as a model, students create their own illustration surrounding a quality that they value.

Who will you be?

What qualities are important to you?

How can you demonstrate this quality to yourself and to others?

Use this template to consider what qualities are important to you.

On the next page, pick one of your ideas and design a picture that portrays you showing this quality.

What qualities do you value in others?

List your top three qualities

Ask others to share what qualities they think are your best.

Pick which quality is important to you.
How do you show this?
